Work History

January 2010 - Present

Software Engineer, Hissan Car Factory, London

Working in this busy car factory it was my job to create software to run the robotic manufacturing equipment. I would have to study the Equipment to see how it operates and to understand how to program the software to do the tasks required. I would have to then thoroughly test the software for compliance to make sure that it is working correctly.

January 2008- January 2010

Software Engineer, Adams Accounting, London.

As a Software Engineer in this large accounting firm it was my duty to create software to help the accountants do their jobs. I would have to listen to the accountants to see what they needed from the software and then create it whilst simultaneously testing it to ensure that it is working as required and make any changes that would improve the software.

January 2007 – January 2008

Software Engineer, Sharon's Stocks, London

Working for this stocks and shares company it was my job to create software to facilitate the selling of stocks and shares both in the office place and the online website. I would have to create an online software that end users could use without any problem, and a more complex software program for use by the office staff. The software had to showcase the best performing stocks to make it simpler to see the most profitable stocks.
